Earl Calkins Well is Second Producer in Woodhull Field

Five-inch casing run in the well last week and set in cement — Drilling resumed to the Oriskany sand Tuesday night—Other wells in the field progressing—Gas struck last night.

Coming in with an initial flow of 50,000 feet in the top of the sand last night the Earl Calkins well became the second producer in the Woodhull gas field. Drillers went through the limestone cap-rock about nine o'clock and had just struck a few blows with the drill on the top of the sand when gas began flowing from the hole. Without delay tools were jerked from the hole and the master gate screwed shut to test the casing. The well will be opened Friday morning and drilled into the sand. The Calkins is owned by Lycoming Gas Co. and was drilled by Acme Drilling Co. Drillers on the well were J. P. Shaffer, Harry Huber and Frank Kortez. Tool dressers were Kenneth Shaffer, Clare Brown and H. Wheatcraft.

Work was proceeding slowly on the Calkins well yesterday afternoon with the drill wearing its way down through the hard limestone cap rock which covers the Oriskany sand. Five inch casing was run last week and set with 20 feet of concrete, which was forced down the five inch pipe and between the pipe and the hole with 2,000 feet of water which half filled the deep hole.

Tuesday night the drillers started up the rig, shut down while the cement was setting, and began baling this water out of the hole. The cement was then drilled out of the inside of the pipe and the bit continued on through the Onondaga lime to the sand.

The well which will probably hit the sand next is the Ackerman which Joe Flannagan is drilling for Prindle of Bradford. The Ackerman was reported down better than 2,000 feet the first of the week and barring bad luck should be drilled to the sand in approximately three weeks more.

Fairman Brothers were 1,620 feet yesterday in Becker's well on the Carrie B. Calkins farm. Drillers on the well reported they were making about 60 feet of hole now to a 12 hour tower. Atwater was down to 1,410 yesterday in the Moyer well. Sylvania's Hattie Hand was down to 425 feet with the drill working in more than 300 feet of water.

Larkin's well on the Woodhull town lot finished running casing Wednesday at 600 feet. After setting this 8 inch casing the drillers were unable to get their tools down the pipe, necessitating pulling same from the well.

Has Position as Superintendent

The trustees of Davenport Home at Bath announce they have engaged Miss Louise S. Miller, a Steuben County young lady, for superintendent. Miss Miller, whose home is in Addison, was selected by the trustees because she has fitted herself especially for work with girls. The new superintendent took over her duties August 5th.

Miss Miller graduated from Addison High School, taking a post-graduate course the following year. She entered Cornell University the next fall and majored in sociology subjects graduating with a degree of Bachelor of Science in the College of Home Economics. She did children's work in Steuben County one summer.

After graduating from Cornell Miss Miller worked under Dr. Miriam Van Waters, an eminent sociologist at Framingham, Mass., being an officer on Dr. Van Waters' staff where she gained broad experience in social service work and its problems. In addition to her work at Framingham she has much experience with young people, including work in Ithaca Children's Home and the West Side House in the same city.

Miss Miller will succeed Miss Mary E. Bracken who has carried on the work temporarily until the new superintendent was ready to take over her duties. Trustees of the Home stated they felt they were fortunate to secure as superintendent a person so well fitted to work with young girls.

The Davenport Home was founded in the early sixties and for approximately 70 years it has performed a great human service by providing a home for girls. The trustees desire to have the Home continue to carry on this fine work begun by the founders almost three-quarters of a century ago.

Hawkins & Hill Open Garage

Hawkins and Hill, long dealers in tractors and farm machinery in Addison and vicinity, have taken over the Riverside Garage. They have installed a 220 volt electric welder which will make repairs on farm machinery of any size. Ernest Fritz will be in charge of the work here.

Messrs Hawkins and Hill have been dealing in Chevrolet cars for several years and will service these cars in the garage. However, their specialty will be the repairing of the larger tractors and farm machinery. They will also repair castings of larger size than has previously been possible with equipment in this village.

WPA Activities Censured By Village Trustees—Other Notes

Loss of tools and disappearance of 400 bags of cement from local project discussed — Village to exercise closer supervision over expenditures — Mortimer Root seeks permit to build garage.

Village officials will more closely supervise WPA expenditures on the approved projects to be undertaken here according to action taken by the Village Board Monday night at the regular monthly meeting.

Severe condemnation of former WPA officials and their lax methods of doing work and supervising distribution of tools, cement and other working equipment was voiced by the trustees.

Mayor Sisto opened this discussion by stating the $27,000 project for the completion of the dike work in Addison had been approved and work will begin in about three weeks. He advised Mr. Clark that he should not give up the cement business owing to the need for a great deal more on the coming projects. Mr. Clark stated there was still a quantity in his warehouse and this is available, but he has the key and will control the distribution.

WPA Thefts Censured

Mr. Sisto said, "We found where some of the cement on those former jobs went that was supposed to go into the dike job. One of the workers went to Fred Farnham and offered him cement at a greatly reduced price for a new barn he was constructing. There were no checks on the tools or cement. We got the ha, ha, from the people without having anything to do with the job, except signing the checks. Where is the $147 worth of rope we bought and the tools? No one knows where a piece of rope is. And 400 bags of cement were loaded on the village truck and taken outside the village and sold, from the cement we were paying for. The village truck was busy nights and days running around with our stuff and taking it other places than where it belonged. I was told I would have nothing to do with the project except sign checks and the WPA would exercise all supervision.

"There will be no more checks for WPA work without an order. I'm not going to seek re-election even if they pay me $1,000 per month, but I'm going to save the people's money.

"If the WPA is let alone they will spend the $27,000 in no time and they may try to get away with some more of the tools and cement, but not if I can help it."

Trustee Allen said, "It might be a good idea to tell the workers they will have to furnish their own tools for most of them probably have some of ours already."

Mayor Sisto continued, "And if

Local Families Want N.Y. Fresh Air Children

Mrs. Elroy Hannahs is in charge of the Herald-Tribune fresh air children's group that will come to Addison the 11th of this month. So far 10 children have been spoken for by local residents, and most of them are children who have been here before.

Anyone desiring children may have their preferances as to which they want, a boy or girl, specify the particular ages, nationality and religious convictions. The Herald-Tribune committee in New York pays the transportation of the youngsters to this place and return and they are to be returned to New York August 24.

Thousands of these under privileged children are on the rolls of the newspaper and are sent to communities throughout the state. This is the only opportunity for many of these children to get out of the sweltering heat of the city, for most of them, while coming from clean homes, come from homes where vacation plans are not made and usually where the father is unable to provide more than the necessities for his family and in many cases where mothers are trying to support the family in the absence or death of the father.

Anyone who can take a child, or more than one, will be performing an act of charity and at the same time be providing a vacation home for children. In some communities where hundreds of these children are sent some people with large homes and ample means take four children from one family.

Mrs. Martha Hangen will chaperon the group to Addison from New York.

Erie Railroad Repairing Roadbed in Addison Area

Workmen for the Erie Railroad have been busy in this vicinity for the past several weeks repairing and fixing the road bed of the main line operating through Addison. The track workers have laid new ties in several places, reconditioned other ties, dug out the old ballast and washed and cleaned the stone and replaced it in several places. The project is one of the first of its kind done on the Erie in several years and is probably warranted by the increased business accruing to that railroad.

Coldest July Day in History Recorded 27th

Two of the coldest July days in the history of this section were recorded last month, according to Arthur Miller, local weather recorder. The maximum temperature July 1st was 68, while it was only 62 degrees July 27th.

The minimum temperature [illegible] 27 was 40 ma[illegible] temperature for the day, 51. Mr. Miller stated he searched the records and could find no July day so cold in the annals of the local station.

July was a dry month as well as a hot and cold one. Only 1.32 inches of rainfall were recorded, as against the average of 3.42 inches. Last year the July rainfall was also low, 1.40 and local crops suffered more severely a year ago because of the shortage of rain in June, 1936. June 1937 was a month of heavy precipitation, hence local crops do not show the effects of the lack of rain this month.

Martha Dwight Honored By State Temperance Group

Late resident leaves large sum to prohibition organization—Had never been a member — Marker to be placed in Maple Cemetery says Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, state president who made special trip to Addison for purpose.

The New York State Women's Christian Temperance Union is to erect a marker in Maple Cemetery, Addison, in honor of the late Miss Martha S. Dwight, a former resident.

Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, New York State president of the W. C. T. U. was in Addison Thursday of last week to complete the arrangements for the marker and told this writer an interesting story of early Addison and also of one of the early families here.

Martha S. Dwight was born at or near Addison, September 2, 1840, a daughter of the late Sylvester and Elizabeth Stewart. Her father was born here in 1804 and her mother in 1807. The mother died in Addison in 1865 and her father died in 1891. Both are buried in Maple Cemetery, Addison. In addition to the daughter, Martha, they had a son, Sylvester, Jr.

Upon the death of the parents, the son and daughter left Addison, never to return here to live. They settled in Michigan, where Sylvester married Jennie Dyer. Upon their death, Miss Dwight, left alone without relatives of any description, asked permission of her personal friend, Miss Myrna Lang, to move to Warren, Ohio, with her. This permission was granted. However, Miss Dwight did not live with the Langs and seldom saw her most intimate friend. She lived the life of a recluse.

Prior to coming to Warren she had spent some time in Hillsdale, Mich., as a school teacher and when she was in Warren she became a book seller and was successful at this work for many years until her hearing became impaired and she was unable to get about.

However, by frugal living and strict accounting of her finances she had managed to accumulate property in two banks aggregating $12,000 as near as can be learned. The property consisted of four farms of 80 acres each in Ohio, three of them being located in oil fields. Also some other property and mortgages. Throughout this time she lived in a furnished room and upon her death in 1928, receipts for purchases as small as 15c were found in her room.

The bulk of her property was left to the W. C. T. U. There are no records in any chapter to show that she had ever been a member nor that she had contributed to the Union during her life time.

Arrangements are made at this late date owing to the estate being settled last year. The Daughters of the American Revolution in Addison have been entrusted with the perpetual care of the grave of Miss Dwight, whose body was brought here at her death, by her friend Miss Lang.

The marker will contain the name of the deceased, her place of birth, date of her birth and death and other pertinent information relative to her life.

SIGNALS IGNORED BY MOTORISTS

With audible and visible signals in operation, no sound reason can be advanced for the failure of a driver to bring his vehicle to a full stop before proceeding over a highway-railroad grade crossing, it is maintained by the Bureau of Safety of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The bureau's views on this subject were made known in the course of a recent investigation of a collision at a grade crossing in Indiana between a passenger train and an automobile. W. J. Patterson, Director of the Bureau of Safety, wrote the report.

"The statements of the driver of the automobile involved in this accident", according to the report, "indicate that he glanced at the flashing-light signals when a short distance from the crossing and that they showed only a red glare and did not appear to be flashing. He did not look at them again, while the passenger riding with him would not make a positive statement as to whether the lights were flashing.

"Neither of these men heard the whistle of the engine of Train No. 116, the windows of the automobile being closed, nor did they see the engine until it had reached or passed the station building, at which time the automobile was on or extremely close to the eastward track.

"Not only does this latter statement indicate that full advantage was not taken of the fact that when 21 feet from the nearest rail the driver could have seen the engine when more than 900 feet distant, but it also is to be noted that there is definite evidence that the flashing-light signals were in operation. In view of this fact, and of the further fact that the highway approaching [illegible] straight and the signals in plain [illegible] hundred feet, with a dry pavement and favorable weather conditions, no sound reason can be advanced for the failure of the driver to stop before reaching the crossing.

"This accident was caused by an automobile being driven on a railroad crossing at grade directly in front of an approaching train, in disregard of signals indicating the approach of a train".

HURRY, HURRY, HURRY!

In his insistence to leaders of Congress last week that several of his key or "must" legislative bills must be passed before adjournment, the President was playing true to the role he has assumed ever since he has been in the White House. That role has dictated the command to Congress time and again—do what I want you to do, and do it quick!

Ever has the Roosevelt refrain stayed upon the same note; hurry, hurry, HURRY! If you do not do this in a hurry that dragon will jump out of the closet, so hurry up and do what I ask you to do for I know best. Do not stop to debate this piece of legislation, do not stop to debate that piece of legislation; because I propose it is enough reason for Congress to pass the measures that are sent over from the White House.

And for four long years Congress did jump through the Roosevelt hoop, passing the entire hodge podge of laws that were written by his pink and red Brain Trusters. Then came the fatal February day when the President flashed forth his most daring scheme of all—his plan for seizing control of the Supreme Court by packing it with six stooges who would be deliberately selected to declare constitutional every measure Roosevelt desired for his social revolution. Fatal it was, for on the day the newspapers of the land carried the theme of that cunning plot to make an American dictator, the people suddenly woke up. And among those from whose eyes the scales were suddenly brushed were those Democratic Senators who formed the opposition block which eventually killed the court packing bill.

Congress learned many things during the days of investigation which preceded debate upon the court bill. It learned that people in every walk of life were bitterly opposed to handing more power to the President. It found that a little group of clever socialists were constantly at the President's ear urging him on in his quest for dictatorial powers, so that they might make over the country according to the Tugwellian pattern.

Now the court bill is dead. Mr. Roosevelt's super-human luck has slipped off the end of his string of charm beads. But out of the scraps of paper on which this notorious measure was written Mr. Roosevelt has jumped up in the face of Congress again, demanding immediate consideration of some more of his "must" bills. Congress must get some of these bills passed before it adjourns. Congress must not spend much time in debating these things the President wants now, nor can he wait for another session to consider them deliberately.

Among the "must" bills are the wage and hour measure, an intricate document which no one in or out of Congress admits they completely understand. A radical slum clearance and housing bill packed with TNT has also been crammed into the Congressional hopper for immediate passage. And revision of the lower federal courts must be passed this session as a sop to the wounded pride of the man who bragged so loudly a few months ago about how he would beat the opposition bloc and force the court packing bill on the statute books. Then there is that re-organization bill which would grant the President such wide power he could completely make over the executive departments in Washington.

Congress is in a hurry to get out of the hot capitol buildings. The members have fought over the court bill until their tempers are on hair-trigger edge. They are in no condition to consider or debate measures that are of great consequence to the country. They should call a halt upon further "must" legislation, adjourn and go home to cool off and learn just what the folks back there think of their stands for and against the court bill. It is time the people started a "must" demand — they should say Congress "must" adjourn and give us a rest.

BON VOYAGE

Dr. Bristow Adams, Cornell University professor, lovingly known to his students and members of the newspaper profession as "B. A." is about to start on an interesting trip around the world. Dr. Adams told something of his plans over the Cornell radio hour last week, and many who heard him will envy the professor in his jaunt into strange lands over stranger routes.

For "B. A." (we hope we are intimate enough friends to rate the privilege of using that title) is not starting out on any charted course laid down by a world tourist agency. Instead he is going to browse among the terrestrial hedgerows of the globe, traveling on slow little tramp steamers instead of boarding palatial liners. Dr. Adams is head of the Department of Publications at Cornell, but at heart he is a farmer and has the interest and welfare of the farmer at heart. On his trip he is planning to dig into the remote corners of some purely agricultural countries to learn at first hand how they do it. He will visit several countries in South America, Africa, Australia and the islands of the south seas. He is looking forward to visiting an agricultural country where twelve crops of alfalfa can be harvested in a single year.

Knowing "B. A." we know he will come home filled with new ideas [illegible] imparted to those around him in an interesting way. The Doctor once told the writer that he had always hoped some time to find leisure enough for opportunity to write a book. Perhaps we are speaking out of turn in expressing the thought than on this cruise Dr. Adams may find the time to write that long anticipated book. We hope the prediction proves true, knowing that out of the store of his rich experience there is material for many a book, which his free style would make easy reading.

Much material from "B. A's." pen has appeared in this paper over a span of years, anonymously, so whether you know it or not "B. A." is no stranger to our readers. SEVEN MORE RUBBER "YARDSTICKS"

Writing in the Financial World, Frank A. Newton of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, sums up the peculiar advantages that make it possible for TVA to sell "cheap" power:

1. The greater part of the cost of the dams is charged against flood control, navigation and purposes other than power production.

2. The TVA pays almost nothing in taxes, whereas private utilities must pay out about 15 per cent of their gross income in taxes.

3. The TVA gets its money from the public treasury—and it pays no interest.

4. The TVA makes an entirely inadequate allowance for depreciation of plant, for which it was severely criticized by the former Comptroller General.

5. Municipalities wishing to build power plants to distribute TVA power are given 45 per cent of the plant's cost as an outright gift by the government.

6. The TVA, being a United States Government agency, receives preferential freight rates, free printing, the mail franking privileges, etc.

In other words, the TVA can undersell private power companies because the people of the United States—living in Maine and California, North Dakota and Texas—pay its bill directly through taxation, or indirectly through the loss of taxes incurred when a government agency goes into business and destroys highly taxed private business. A leader of the private power industry has declared that if his company were given TVA's advantages, it could undercut TVA rates by 25 per cent—and this has never been refuted.

What a rubber "yardstick" TVA is! And now it is proposed to establish seven more similar electric authorities—tax free, tax subsidized destroyers of private, tax-paying business—in other parts of the country. The current Federal power program can only be characterized as an economic monstrosity.

Tidal Wave Against Court Bill Ma[illegible]plash Into Next Election

[illegible]RK SULLIVAN

JUST [illegible] court fight collapsed following the President's surrender, there was beginning to roll up throughout the country a wave of opposition to it, organized and spontaneous. What will now happen to that surge of emotion. Although the fight is won, yet it seems likely the issue will still be a living thing in the next year's primaries and elections—the beginning of the primaries is scarcely eight months away. It is hard to conceive that any new future issue will be so vital as the memory of the court one.

If it turns out that the record of the court fight is an issue in next year's elections, it is desirable the country should know just what the record is, just who was for the court measure, who against it.

Up to a certain point this can be known. It cannot be known exactly because there was never a rollcall directly on the measure. But a list can be made of about forty-two Senators who in one way or another went on record against the measure. Ten members of the Senate Judiciary Committee did it by signing an adverse report against the measure. Others made speeches against it, others brief public statements.

Another list can be made of about forty Senators who one way or another went on record in favor of the measure.

There remain about fourteen Senators who never took a position publicly. How obscure the position of some is illustrated by Senator Wagner, of New York. The day before the fight ended, Senator Wagner received a letter from Governor Lehman of New York asking him to vote against the measure. Senator Wagner answered the day after the fight ended, but he did not state how he would have voted had there been a rollcall.

Among the forty-two who were on record against the court measure, it would be difficult to make distinctions.

To try to assign relative credit for defeat of the measure would be futile and could not be accurate. Different men had different opportunities.

Much credit would go to Senator Burke, of Nebraska, for having conducted the struggle in and before the Senate Judiciary Committee. Very much would go to Senator Wheeler of Montana, because his opposition led many liberals and even radicals first to doubt and then to oppose. Much credit would go to Senator O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, because of the fidelity to conscience which led him to forego personal loyalty to President Roosevelt and National Chairman Farley. Much would go to Senator Glass, of Virginia, for the hour-long radio speech that he rose from a sick-bed to make.

The Republican Senators should not be forgotten. Particularly should they not be forgotten because, with conscious self-sacrifice, they invited forgetting and invited it for the purpose of helping the cause.

The day after Mr. Roosevelt gave out his measure—February 5—the Republican Senators saw where their greatest opportunity for service lay. They realized there were only sixteen of them in a Senate of ninety-six, and therefore they could not be the backbone of the opposition. They realized that in proportion as Republicans refrained from taking the lead against the measure, so would it be easier for Democrats to take the lead.

Because of the way the fight ended, in fiasco and surrender by the President and his friends, several Senators opposed to the court measure have lost opportunities which probably they would have prized, and which would have given them, in the eyes of the public, an additional esteem that they cannot now have. For example, who can doubt that Senator Burke, of Nebraska, had the fight gone on, would have made a notable speech against the measure. He has the ability.

And who can doubt that Senator Borah would have made one of the great speeches of a career already great? Or that Senator Vandenberg would have made a notable speech?

And who can have any doubt that the veteran Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, might have crowned his career with an impassioned plea of the kind he used to make against the L[illegible]e of Nations? He was deeply [illegible]d by the court measure. One of the most touching scenes I have ever observed on the Senate floor occurred two days before the fight collapsed. Senator O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, had concluded a speech against the court measure, and a most excellent one—it was probably the best analysis of the measure as a whole made by any one. Senator O'Mahoney, slender and boyish looking, was gathering up his papers. Across the aisle and up to his desk came Senator Johnson, walking slowly. One noticed, a little poignantly, that Senator Johnson is no longer young. Gravely, affectionately, with emotion restrained and yet apparent, the older man shook the younger's hand, turned slowly, and went back to his seat. A few days later when the fight was over and won, Senator Johnson arose. He said: "Glory be to God!" Those were the last words spoken in a debate on a great issue, a debate that would have been even greater had the fight gone on.

In the Hands of a Receiver

By WALTER LIPPMANN

In the past few days there have been two straws in the wind which presage even more serious trouble for the New Deal than it has as yet encountered. Last week Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, attacked the National Labor Relations Board as a kangaroo court biased in favor of the C. I. O., and said it would be better to abolish the board than to let it make "economic hash of our national welfare." And on Monday Representative Rankin, of Mississippi, denounced the board as "conspiring with communistic influences to destroy Southern industries."

What makes these attacks so significant is, of course, the fact that Senator Nye and Representative Rankin belong to the left wing of what used to be called the farm bloc. Both of them are the avowed and persistent enemies of Eastern bankers and of the public utilities; both are in the traditional American sense advanced progressives; that is to say, opponents of concentrated wealth, big business and the conservative direction of money and credit. Yet here they are, sharply challenging the New Deal on one of its crucial policies: on its attempt to use the Federal power to create a labor movement based on industrial unionism in alliance with the New Deal Democracy.

Any objective student of American politics could have told Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wagner, "The Nation" and "The New Republic," Mr. Heywood Broun and other amiable philanderers with the notion of a farmer-labor party, that just this was bound to happen. The amateur progressives who have been riding high, wide and handsome for the last two or three years have been determined to believe that the logical objective of their efforts was a political party combining class-conscious farmers with class-conscious industrial workers. It is sheer delusion. But being possessed by this delusion they have been unable to think straight, and have proceeded to make one gigantic blunder after another.

The plain fact of the matter is that when farmers go into politics they naturally seek to raise the cost of living and to make raw materials more expensive; and when labor goes into politics it naturally does things which make more costly the things which the farmer buys. The idea that the same government can at one and the same time raise farm prices artificially and raise wages artificially would never be entertained by any competent student of politics.

For it is a truth, demonstrated again and again in our own experience, verifiable from the experience of every other country, including Russia, easily confirmed by any one who has lived both in industrial cities and in rural areas, that the divergence of interest and of moral outlook is very great between the city and the country. To think of founding a political party on their common interests is naive: for the real problem is to discover how statesmanship is to adjust and conciliate their conflicts of interest.

But because the dominant New Dealers are under the hallucination that they are creating a farmer-labor party, they have renounced the effort, difficult enough in all conscience, to play the part of the firm, friendly but impartial judge of conflicting interests. It has been a tragic blunder. It may discredit not only them but the cause of progressivism that they lead so earnestly but so unwisely. These attacks from Messrs. Nye and Rankin are certain signs that in becoming the partisans of the C. I. O. the New Dealers have not only not advanced a farmer-labor party, but have, in fact, driven a wedge between the agrarian progressives and the industrial radicals.

Nor have they proved to be good friends of organized labor and of the industrial workers. On the contrary, they have led them blithely and irresponsibly down a path to what may well prove to be a major catastrophe for American labor unionism. Whether they meant to or not, and I think they meant to, they have exacerbated the conflict between the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. Then, because they encouraged the C. I. O. without having the honest courage to restrain it in time, because they have ridden with spurs and no bridle, they played a decisive part in the undoing of John L. Lewis and the C. I. O. Because they let it be believed that the Federal government was in alliance with the C. I. O., Mr. Lewis's inexperienced lieutenants called strikes before they had organized their men, made demands they had no power to enforce, and finally walked head on into the trap where Mr. Girdler was waiting for them.

For this folly the labor policy of the New Deal has been denounced by the C. I. O. as a betrayal. Thus the resplendent messiahs who buzz around the White House have managed to alienate the farm bloc, the A. F. of L., the C. I. O., the great bulk of the employers, and virtually the whole middle class.

It was indeed high time when Mr. Garner took charge and became what is in effect the political receiver of an administration that has all but wrecked itself by its own wholly unnecessary blundering. By all ordinary standards the Roosevelt Administration ought to be more popular than ever: it is administering the government on a rising tide of prosperity. But it is in serious trouble, and the reason it is in serious trouble is that Mr. Roosevelt has been persuaded that he is the leader of a peaceable social revolution and, therefore, the partisan of certain interests as against other interests. This idea has caused him to cease to act the true role of an American President, which is to be the adjuster and conciliator of opposing interests and the vigilant guardian of liberty under the law.

That is what is dissolving his power. The sensational decline in his prestige and his popularity can, I feel certain, be ascribed directly to the growing realization among the people that Mr. Roosevelt, in his second term, did not choose to conceive the Presidency as they expect him to conceive it.

A Tragic Anniversary

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN

National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

Recently the world noted, with a sort of shocked surprise, that the war in Spain had entered upon its second year.

During those tragic twelve months, terrific losses in life have been suffered. During them, whatever freedom the people of Spain may have enjoyed has been grievously threatened.

For into the conflict have entered the rival influences and forces of the two great enemies of individual freedom—Communism and Dictatorship. And whichever of the two may win in the end, the people themselves will lose.

Both those political products of a distraught and frightened Europe are the enemies of that democracy which we of America revere. Both preach the subjection of the individual man and woman to a dominant state or dictator. Both are repugnant to the basic principle on which our own nation was founded.

And whichever side wins faces a hollow victory. America can prove that. So can those other nations where democracy stands secure, and, with it, government dedicated to freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of religion and freedom of opportunity.

While Europe endures the tragic conflict, America celebrates this summer the 150th anniversity of a Constitution which announced the principle that "We, the people," would control our government.

What that principle can mean is demonstrated in our established record of national achievement and individual well-being—a record which no Fascist or Communist state has even remotely approached.

Labor Unions A Major Racket

Swiftly and steadily, the lines are being drawn throughout America for a showdown struggle in the next few years between the greater majority of us and organized labor which, under the bruising tactics of CIO Leaders Lewis and Berry has become nothing except a major racket.

In definitely taking the field against their operations, your editor realizes that he is starting a fight—but, we were reared in an atmosphere of fighting for what we think is right, regardless of whether we win or lose.

The American farmer will be the first and hardest hit by the ever-spreading circle of unionism. Higher wages for the laborer means, of course, a greatly increased buying power. But it also means a greatly increased price in the things the farmer has to buy.

And it means that when the prices of farm products rise, as they should, to enable the farmer to meet the prices he will have to pay, that there will come a terrific complaint from the consumer. And those complaints might lead to very arbitary governmental regulations of agricultural prices.

For many years, the general idea of the city dweller and laborer has been to sell high to the farmer and buy low from him. They have made the farmer sell in an open market but buy in a protected market. Now comes labor with the same general idea being pushed from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf. Before we annoy some who may swear by John L. Lewis instead of at him, we should like to say here and now that we are in favor of organized labor within the limits of decency and principles of fair play.

But we are very much against labor organizers! That is why we entitled this piece "A Major Racket". We wonder how many miners could live each year on what it costs John Lewis to keep up the huge and expensive home he maintains near Washington. We wonder how many bottles of milk could be bought for undernourished miners' children for what it costs to maintain the big union cars that carry leaders and organizers around the country.

Having made a point indirectly, we will repeat it in more direct fashion: While the laborer gets a little benefit from his union membership and dues—the men at top get a lot. They live high, wide and handsome on the dollars sweated for by those who mine and mill and pay the fees. That is what we are opposed to, first.

Secondly, we feel that what this country really needs to fear, instead of communism, is labor fascism. Roosevelt Democracy is bad enough: let's don't make it worse by letting the Lewis-Berry et al combination stick us in brown shirts or silver shirts, or blue shirts or some other kind of shirts and teach us to say "heil Johnny" when the CIO flag rolls down the street.

For having aided and abetted the march toward fascism, we feel that Mr. Roosevelt is to be condemned. He made a hard bargain with labor for re-election and now he has to live up to it. As a matter of general policy, we support Mr. Roosevelt in most of his program. But, as we've said before, we reserve the right to slap at a President as quickly as at a clerk, when we think he is wrong or has gone far beyond the bounds of sound leadership.

Travel Bill Exceeds Cost of Sending U. S. Army to France

Washington (IPS) — The federal government will spend more money for travel expenses of its agents in three years than it cost to send america's soldiers abroad to fight in the World War.

This comparison was drawn on the House floor in a speech by Representative Knutson of Minnesota. After an exhaustive study, he found the federal travel expenses alone totalled $76,669,506 in the 1936 fiscal year and $77,101,000 in 1937 and will cost $52,445,003 in the 1938 fiscal year which has just begun.

"Two hundred and six million dollars is a tremondous sum of money and will buy a whole lot of traveling", Knutson said. "In fact, this sum exceeds by far the cost of sending the American Expeditionary Forces to France during the World War.

"It exceeds by $39,000,000 the travel expenses for the fiscal years 1931, 1932 and 1933 combined. And when we get through paying the probable deficiencies for travel expenses next year, the amount spent will undoubtedly be more than twice the sum spent for travel in any comparable three-year period in the nation's history.

Knutson's figures showed that the Department of Agriculture spent more travel money in 1936 and 1937, and will spend more in 1938, than even the Army and Navy, which are continually transferring men from one post to another in order to widen their experience. For the present year, $6,767,934 has been appropriated for travel by Agriculture Department employees and agents. The Treasury will spend $5,217,632, much of it for income tax investigators; the Department of Justice $4,646,632, and expenditures for Emergency Conservation Work, not included in this year's budget, were $13,958,000 last year and $14,557,000 the year before.

Knutson emphasized that these expenses did not include the cost of maintaining or buying automobiles, of which the government owns thousands, or of shipping goods.

Bells Arrive For Carillon At Alfred U

Alfred, Aug. 2 — The thirty-five Belgian bells recently purchased for a carillon at Alfred University have arrived on the campus, erection of a temporary tower to house them has been begun, and the first concert will be given within a few weeks, it was announced today by Prof. Norman Whitney, a member of the committee that has been responsible for this enterprise. The carillon was assembled in Belgium and consists of old bells all of which were cast by old masters between the years of 1674 and 1786. During the intervening years they have hung in various Belgium municipal "singing towers" where they have symbolized the civic freedom of these cities.

The bells were purchased by popular subscription from among alumni and friends of Alfred, and will constitute a memorial to the thirty-eight years of faithful and constructive service rendered the University by President Emeritus and Mrs. B. C. Davis. Dr. and Mrs. Davis are in Alfred for the summer, and it is expected that the first concert will be played within the next few weeks so that they will be enabled to hear the bells before returning to their winter home in Florida.

Included in the shipment were the mountings for the bells, and the clavier, or "keyboard" at which the carillon is played. For best tonal effects, the bells are mounted on oak beams, and the beams on which this set is mounted are of oak that was contemporary with the casting of the bells themselves.

The first concert will be played by Dr. H. S. Wesson, of Navasota, Texas, who is the only American graduate of the leading school for carillonneurs in Belgium.

PARTS OF STATE NEED RAIN

Some sections of New York State still need rain, according to the report of the United States Weather Bureau at Cornell for the week ending July 27. The report continues:

"Much hay remains to be cut, with timothy hay becoming overripe. The heavy hay crop, together with a shortage of labor in some places, has placed farmers behind with their work. Wheat is mostly cut, with much of it still in the fields; threshing has begun in some places. Oats are turning rapidly, with a good crop in prospect.

"Buckwheat has made an excellent start, and most corn has good color and is making good growth. Early planted potatoes look well, better than the late planted crop. On Long Island the digging of a good crop of early potatoes is in full swing. Cabbage, truck crops and gardens are progressing. Red and black raspberries have yielded well".

A Newcomer In Woodhull

Reddy Kilowatt, Little Electric Chap, Comes to Town—You Should Meet Him

A new town character is being introduced in Woodhull. His name is Reddy Kilowatt, the New York State Electric and Gas Corporation's amusing new advertising character.

Reddy Kilowatt is the powerful little fellow who is always behind your electric switch—snapping the switch puts him to work. He's never in sight, but he is a third stronger than the average horse.

What Reddy Looks Like

Reddy's body has purposely taken the zigzig from first use by Benjamin Franklin to represent electric energy. His round head is an electric light globe—his nose, a light bulb, suggesting one of the fundamentals of the electric industry—light. His ears are the familiar convenience outlets, which are important in every home.

Always on the Job

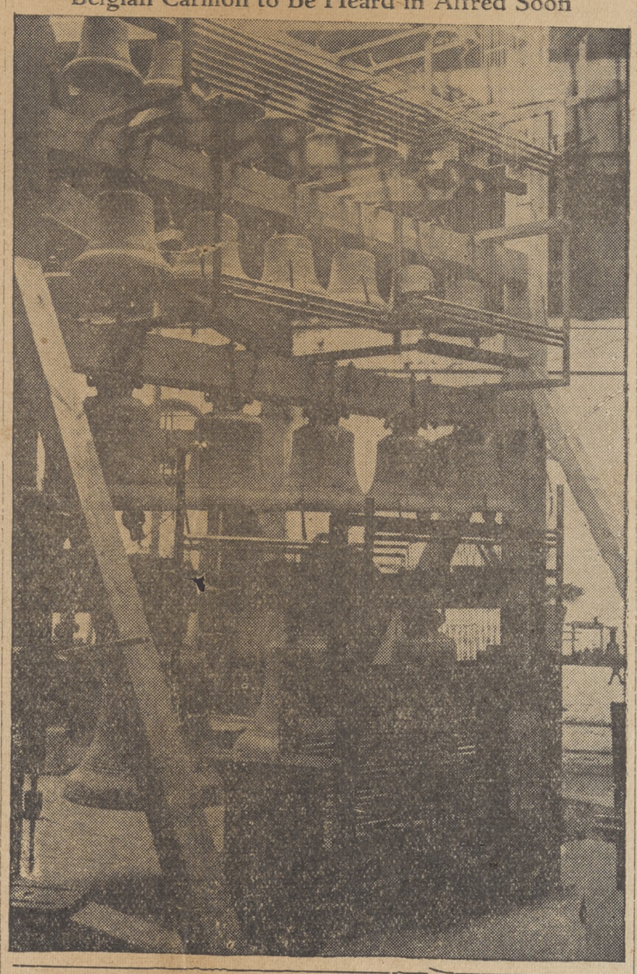
This little fellow's name—Reddy Kilowatt—means just what the word "ready" implies — electric service whenever it's needed. Reddy works 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, when he is needed. He eats nothing, requires no place to sleep, and his wages are low.

Reddy helps wash the clothes and dishes, take care of the food, clean the house, do the ironing, and works at a hundred other jobs. On the farm, he pumps water and even milks the cows. His one ambition in life is to make homes brighter, work easier, and to provide more time for recreation, comfort and rest.

From time to time, you'll read more about Reddy Kilowatt in this newspaper. He's an interesting fellow to know.

A dirt floor is desirable in an egg room because it is more moist than a concrete floor. If the humidity needs to be increased, some sand or gravel can be thrown on the floor and kept wet.

Belgian Carillon to Be Heard in Alfred Soon



Hawkins Announces School Committees—Other Business

teacher in a memo to Mr. Gladstone. She asked for two machines. Mr. Miller said there was a provision in the budget for one machine. Mr. Gladstone stated the machines would cost $55 for an electric one, $49 for a treadle machine and $22.50 for a reconditioned machine. Trustee Laffkas suggested the purchase of a new one rather than a reconditioned machine. Mr. Miller said it would be better to get only one this year as this was all the budget would stand. On a question Mr. Gladstone said there were two treadle machines in the department now. Miss Curtis asked if there were much experience operating the electric machine. Mr. Russ stated the sum for repair would be very small. Mr. Miller moved the purchase of a machine and Mr. Ackerson seconded and on a vote all voted in favor.

New Table Chairs

Mr. Gladstone said there was need to purchase 18 table arm chairs with drawers for books. This purchase is made necessary by the addition of several seniors and crowded conditions. The new class is to be provided chairs in the workroom. These chairs cost $7.65 each with a reduction for cash. Mr. Gladstone said there had been 50 on hand but some were broken and the engineers had tried to fix as many as possible. He said that if the purchase is not made the seniors will be scattered in several rooms which will be inconvenient for them and for the teachers. Mr. Laffkas questioned spendng this much money at this time but was told there was $300 in the replacement fund for furniture purchases. Mr. Miller moved the purchase of the chairs with notations on the budget what the expenditure was for. Miss Curtis seconded the motion and all present voted to purchase these chairs.

Doors are needed for the cupboards in the domestic science department according to a notation by the teacher, and read by Mr. Gladstone. The cost is estimated at $10. This was left to the building committee. It was voted to purchase an additional typing table to accommodate a typewriter being given the typing department from another school department. The purchase was moved by Mr. Miller and seconded by Mr. Russ and was favorably voted by all the commissioners present.

School Supply Bids

Six bids were received from school supply houses relative to furnishing paper supplies to the school during the coming year. These bids were read by Mr. Gladstone. Two companies bid identical amounts. The American Seating Company and the Bardeen Company submitted bids of $228; J. L. Hammett, $234; Milton Bradley, $235 and Bacon & Vincent, $230. The T. G. Miller paper company did not bid on the whole contract but on supplies sold by them, so no amount was specified.

Considerable discussion arose as to samples of materials submitted, comparison of prices of individual items, and the quality of materials previously purchased from the various companies. Mr. Laffkas moved Bardeen Company be given the contract if the company, which provided the supplies last year, had been fair in its dealings.

President Hawkins suggested the bids be given to the purchasing committee with power to act. Mr. Miller said the purchasing committee usually had acted and Mr. Hawkins said he felt the committee could investigate the contracts and pick the one most favorable to the board. Mr. Laffkas said, "I can look them over, but I will not know whether prices are right or not". Mr. Miller gave it as his opinion that the safe way was for the companies to submit samples and that the matter could be attended to with more intelligence by a committee than by the board as a whole.

Mr. Laffkas asked if everything had been satisfactory last year and Mr. Gladstone said that one matter had to be adjusted in the purchasing of supplies from the Bardeen Company but had worked out satisfactorily.

An advertising campaign prior to the opening of school will be run in the Addison Advertiser for four weeks to acquaint people in the surrounding territory with the facilities of the local school and also to acquaint local parents of school activities and responsibilities.

School Calendar

The tentative calendar for the coming school year was submitted by Mr. Gladstone and approved by the Board members. This reads as follows:

September 7—Tuesday, school opens
October 8-9—Teachers' Zone meeting
October 12—Columbus Day, Tuesday, school closed
November 11—Thursday, Armistice Day, closed
November 24-28—Thanksgiving recess
December 22-January 3—Christmas recess
January 24-28—Regents' week
January 31—First term ends
February 22—Washington's Birthday, close
April 13-25—Easter recess
May, 30—Memorial Day, close
June 20-24—Regents' week
June 26-28—Commencement week.

This makes 188 teaching days and 194 days of school owing to the Bath Fair, Music Festival and other activities. This will be four more days of school and two more teaching days than last year.

After a consultation with Frank Finnerty of the Agriculture Department it is deemed advisable to discontinue the telephone in the agriculture annex owing to the building being little used.

Mr. Hawkins stated Milton Crane had asked him for the use of the ball diamond Wednesday afternoon for a benefit softball game. It was voted to allow the young men to use the softball diamond, not the hard ball diamond for the game held yesterday. They desired the hard ball diamond owing to the bleacher seats. This was denied.

The matter of making some necessary painting repairs to some of the rooms was left to the building committee. This painting is around the baseboards in several of the rooms which have not been touched since the building was constructed. It will be done before school opens. Mr. Laffkas thought it would have been better to discuss this before the budget was made up. However, it was pointed out there is a sum of $500 in the budget for repairs and the painting money can be taken from this sum. Mr. Laffkas expressed the opinion it was of no use to start out spending sums outside the budget before school even opened.

we see anyone stealing tools or cement or other job materials we will call the Chief and have them arrested to make an example of them. I'm sorry we have to be the goat in finishing this project."

Mr. Allen, "They had their playtime on the last job and now will be the time to go to work."

Mayor Sisto, "The higher-ups on the WPA have been receiving their share of trouble also for running short of money before projects were finished". Severe censure of the methods of the WPA workers was voiced by all the trustees. According to sentiment of Monday night tools will be checked out in the morning and at night by responsible parties. A group of 24 wheelbarrows bought new for the job have disappeared and in addition new ones purchased two weeks before the job closed down on the dike are also missing.

Bills for the month of July were audited and ordered paid. They are: Southern Tier News, 91c; Eugene Wade, hauling truck from ditch, $2; Cleaning jail $4.50; F. G. Clark, gas, 35c; W. M. Miller, making out tax bills, $12.50; electric bill, $294.

Jerome Manley Speaks

Jerome Monley, East Front street, appeared before the board to seek action relative to water and gravel running into his cellar and garage. This refuse comes from the north side of the highway and fills his cellar and washes out his garage entrance way. He has interceded with Mayor Sisto and board members relative to this before, but this is his first appearance before the board.

Mayor Sisto said he had tried everything he knew of to solve this problem but had been unable to do so. Mr. Manley said that during the recent rains there was four feet of water in his cellar and three or four tons of gravel. Water and gravel comes from three ways and converges in front of his house owing to the highway being too low on the north side of the street to permit the water to run into a nearby sewer line.

Trustee Orr asked if the State could be compelled to do anything here as the trouble started when the state road was built. Talk of a ditch revealed the fact that the refuse would soon fill that and the fact that large drain tiles had been put under the road to drain the north side was also brought out, this work having been done four years ago. Mr. Manley told that "one time he had to run home and get his hound dog from the cellar to save him from drowning", and he said, "I don't believe I should stand this loss. Mr. Orr, "Suppose we have done all we could, then what will you do?" Mr. Sisto said if it were not for the garage driveway a curb could be put there. After some discussion the members of the board voted that Mr. Manley had a just grievance and that a curb will be built by the village. The clerk was instructed to write the state engineers in Hornell relative to this problem.

Mayor Sisto said the time is coming when this village will have to build larger sewers throughout the whole village to take care of the increased flow of water from the hills.

Complaints

Trustee Clark said Mel Murray had filed a complaint with him relative to William Pepper burning rubbish. Mr. Clark stated he told Mr. Murray to come before the board to place his grievance. Mr. Murray did not appear. However, the trustees held a discussion as to whether the matter was in their jurisdiction or was for the board of health. Mr. Clark questioned whether the village had an ordinance against burning rubbish. Mr. Miller said none had been passed here and the Board of Health has no jurisdiction.

Mr. Orr brought up the matter of Mr. Pepper's constructing a sidewalk before winter comes. Mr. Allen said he did not know whether the village could compel Mr. Pepper to build a sidewalk there. Mr. Orr said that in most places, the community built the sidewalk.

Root to Build

Mortimer Root filed an application to build a garage 24 by 48 feet on the site south of his present structure on Baldwin Avenue. The building will be one story high and of concrete floor and walls. It was determined the building was outside the fire limits set by the village building code ordinance and the permission was granted.

Clerk Miller said John B. Davis had asked whether he, Mr. Davis, had been granted a permit for the construction he added to his building. Mr. Orr said, "Yes, he told me about it". Mr. Miller said he had no record of the permit. Mr. Sisto said the plans should be brought before the board. However, if Mr. Davis insisted on building without a permit and anything happened the responsibility was on him.

The Mayor said there is considerable work to be done on Steuben and Farnham streets and with the cooperation with the Erie railroad he is going to secure dirt for filling these streets and may secure some for the dike project. The Erie is having a steam shovel take out some material along the right-of-way and for the cost of providing the trucks the village can have the gravel. This would be cheaper than the village securing a steam shovel.

The village is building sidewalks now owing to a tree crashing in East Front street last Friday which tore up considerable walk. The suggestion was made by Trustee Clark that all poplar trees in the village should be cut down.

Trustees present were: Phelps, Allen, Orr, and Clark; Mayor Sisto and Clerk Miller.

TODAY'S TAXOGRAM

Recent studies have revealed that out of the total national income of $54,000,000,000 in 1935, exactly $9,717,000,000 went for taxes. In every day language that means that 17.7 cents out of every dollar we earned went for taxes before a cent was spent for rent, food, clothing, doctors or anything else.

● To be watchman over the old water heater isn't a pleasant duty at any time. It's work running up and down stairs several times a day to be sure the heat is on. It's no fun cleaning up litter or worrying about how much hot water is on tap. You can end this nuisance forever by installing a Westinghouse Electric. This automatic water heater never needs pampering. Once installed, you forget it — it never forgets you. Ask us to tell you how easy it is to own a Westinghouse and how economically it operates at our low heating rate. No obligation.

Softballists Lose to Painted Post 15 to 1

The Addison softballists took the worst beating of their career Tuesday night at the hands of the Painted Post team on the winner's diamond. The team played fairly good ball until the sixth inning when a series of well-placed hits by the Posters and some errors on the part of the locals made the game a rout. Little started in the box for Addison and two runs were scored off him in the first and one each in the third and fourth innings. In the sixth the losers blew sky high and gave the winners a nine-run gift which was aided by two more in the seventh inning. The Addisonites scored one lone run in the third. Batting averages for the home team are all shot to pieces as a result of this game. However, the Painted Post squad will play here Thursday night and Friday the team will play in Savona, when they hope to play better ball.

The score by innings:

Addison ..... 001 000 000— 1
Painted Post ..... 201 109 20*—15

Batteries—Addison: Little, Grange and Heidrick; Painted Post: Decker and Walton.

Hunters Will Enjoy More Time in Field Results of New Hours

Albany, July 26—Hunters will suffer no lost hunting time as a result of the new hunting hours during the coming Fall and Winter. In fact they will have 40 hours and 31 minutes more this season than in previous years, judging by figures compiled by the Conservation Department in cooperation with the United States Weather Bureau.

At the last session of the legislature the Conservation Law was amended to provide that the hunting hours during the open season be from seven A. M. to five P. M. and that on the opening day of the upland game season it opens at noon. In previous years it had been from sunrise to sunset.

Innumerable disputes as to the official sunrise and sunset hours made the task of enforcing the law difficult to say the least. Conservationists also declared that the opening day of the hunting season was a needless slaughter, as the game and birds were killed on their roosting grounds before they moved. The Conservation Advisory Council officially recommended that the hours be changed on the opening day and set between definite hours on the other days. Legislation accomplished this.

Sportsmen then began to complain that their hunting hours had been shortened. Analysis discloses that the total or aggregate hours will be much longer.

Starting on October 15, the hunter will lose five hours and 56 minutes. The sun will rise at 6:12 A. M. and set at 5:08 P. M., and under the old laws there would have been 10 hours and 56 minutes of hunting on that day, as compared with five hours under the new law. Each morning thereafter to the end of that month the sun will rise a few minutes later and set a few minutes earlier until, on Hallowe'en it will be coming up at 6:28 P. M. and going down at 4:49 P. M. In all, the hunter will have 55 minutes less on the mornings of October and 24 minutes less at night but from October 24 to 31 inclusive, there will be 50 minutes more time at night. However, the net loss of hunting time to the sportsmen that month will be eight hours and 49 minutes.

In November the hunters will be getting out later in the morning up to and including the 24th, for a loss of 373 minutes of hunting time. On the morning of November 26th a minute will be gained and for the remainder of the month a total of 18 minutes. At the tail end of the day the hunters begin to gain and on November 1, with 12 minutes longer than if the old sunset rule was in effect. Each day more minutes are gained until on November 30 they will be hunting 38 minutes later in the afternoon. In all 823 minutes will be gained in the afternoons, which added to the 18 minutes gained in the mornings, totals 841 minutes gained as against 373 minutes lost or a total net gain for the month of 468 minutes.

The hunters who go in for rabbits and hares will gain most under the new laws. During December the hunters will gain 1,733 minutes hunting time over what they would have had under the old regulations and in January they will gain 1,059 minutes hunting time. The largest single day's gains in this manner will be on December 18, 20, 21, 22 and 24 when the new hours will allow one hour more hunting time than if the old sunrise-sunset rule was effective.

Particularly interesting to the large army of deer hunters who go out in November, when deer are hunted in the Adirondacks, Catskills and several outside counties, and the season is in full swing, will be the news that in the first 15 days of that month, under the new 7 A. M. to 5 P. M. law they will have just eight minutes less hunting time than they did in past years.

These figures of sunrise and sunset are based on the official time for the Albany area, and of course will differ from those in the western sections of the state. Drive Safely-- Save Lives

Number 3 of a Series Sponsored by Steuben County Sheriff Joseph Bailey, Rev. Carl Grabb and American Legion Posts and Chief of Police Elmer C. Bovee.

THE WORST in human nature is sometimes brought out by driving SELFISHLY, some drivers disregard the rights and endanger the lives of others when at the wheel.

The courteous driver is the BETTER DRIVER, and usually gets places just as fast.

He shows his driving ability by adopting good road habits.

Early Morning Fire Burns Riley Car and Garage

Fire completely destroyed the barn and motor car of Mrs. Nora Riley, William street, at 3:30 Friday morning. The blaze is believed to have started from a short circuit in the car, a Plymouth sedan.

Danger from gasoline explosions hindered the firemen in their work. The firemen also worked to protect the house from fire, for aided by a breeze flames were licking the wall of the house. The house was slightly scorched.

Six-Ton Cheese Curing for Fair

Albany, Aug. 2 — Curing in its huge cloth-lined frame at the West Martinsburg, Lewis County, cheese factory, the six-ton "big cheese" will will be ready for exhibition at the New York State Fair at Syracuse, September 5 to 11.

The curd from 11 North Country cheese factories was poured into the gigantic cheese box on July 14 and the follower was placed late that night. Cheese makers screwed down the press immediately and the seven weeks curing process began.

Many turnings of the monster delicacy — an operation accomplished by means of log chains and big pulleys— will be necessary thruout the seven weeks that the "big cheese" is flavoring.

Building of the cheese was supervised by Inspector W. C. Kelsey of Copenhagen, a member of the inspection staff of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. Mr. Kelsey was assisted by Inspector Fred J. Hayes of Potsdam and other inspectors assigned by the department.

Inspector Kelsey provided the following statistical information about the 1937 "big cheese": Hoop, 52 inches high; circumference of hoop, 21 feet; 250 feet of cheese cloth binding required; 9 jack screws used in pressing curd; milk used, day's output from 6,000 cows; manufactured in factory owned by the late Horace Reese of Lowville, original maker of "big cheeses".

Good growth of an annual cover crop in the cultivated orchard or the maintenance of the trees in a permanent sod are two of the principal ways a fruit grower can add to or build up the fertility of his orchard soil.

FRUIT, FLOWERS AND GARDEN

Palms in the House
P. J. Reece

Palms are ordinarly thought of as plants used mainly in green houses and at weddings, or as plants that belong only to tropical lands. Actually, some kinds can be grown in your own home.

The floriculture department at Cornell University recommends Kentia belmoriana and Kentia forsteriana as the two best palms for house culture. They are popularly known as the erect Kentia and the spreading Kentia.

The stems are short and from them arise graceful, long, slender, arching leaves. Fortunately these palms can do without much direct sunlight and may even be placed in dark corners for several days at a time without injury. They must have light occasionally.

Cocos weddeliana is a dwarf form and makes a beautiful decoration for the table as a centerpiece.

Palms must not be subjected to sudden change of temperature. To some kinds, gradual change will cause no harm, even if the temperature falls to freezing, but it can not be prolonged. Palms also need plenty of water and good drainage. They should not have large pots, however. If the soil contains sand and charcoal and there is good drainage in the bottom of the pot, there will be no danger of overwatering.

A gold watch lost seventeen years ago by Mrs. Blanche Coleman, of Perry Center, was found by a highway foreman on the paving construction project of the Perry Center-Warsaw road. The foreman spied the time-piece as a load of dirt was being dumped from a truck. Upon investigation he found the owner's name engraved on the inside of the back case. Mrs. Coleman said she lost the watch in March, 1920, while driving over the highway in a cutter. The road was being macadamized at the time, and it is believed the watch was buried beneath the construction material, to be unearthened seventeen years later by a steam shovel.

County GOP Committee in Bath Today

William Murray, state Republican chief, has put the matter of selecting a candidate for the nomination to the State constitutional convention up to the Steuben County Committee. Joseph C. Latham, Canisteo, leader of the Steuben G. O. P. thought it possible to have one of the candidates from Steuben put in as delegate-at-large from the state. This does not meet the approval of Mr. Murray.

The State Chairman feels that with the abolition of county governments as part of the Democratic strategy at the convention, the Republicans must have a united front and in addition each of the three counties in the district must be represented. Should Benjamin C. DeWitt and Clyde Shults, both of Hornell, remain on the ticket, it is possible that they might secure a majority of the votes of the Steuben, Yates and Ontario district and leave one of the other counties without a candidate. This situation is not desired by the State Chairman, who wants every county represented.

The solution worked out to have the Steuben County committee choose the candidate does not have the approval of Mr. DeWitt, who refuses to sign any agreement. The chairmen of the delegation in Yates and Ontario and Steuben Counties and Mr. Shults are willing to sign.

Edward Cook of Geneva will represent Ontario County and David Miller of Penn Yan will represent Yates County. Attorney Charles Crane, Addison, was the third man in the Steuben ring but withdrew in the interests of party harmony.

A meeting of the members of the Republican County Committee of Steuben County has been called for this Thursday afternoon in the Bath Court House at which time Mr. DeWitt and Mr. Shults have agreed to abide by the decision of the vote of the committee. Each feels he has a majority of the committee and hence is willing to let the matter go to a vote.

Each has also agreed to withdraw to the man with the highest number of votes.

Under the by-laws proxies must be issued to enrolled Republicans residing in the same election district as that of the committeeman using the proxy.

This Week In Sports

By THE RAMBLER

Judging by the tests so far the American defender of the famous American Cup will be the leader at the close of the series of races being sailed off Newport. The English challenger is Thomas Sopwith's Endeavor II and the American defender is Harold Vanderbilt's sloop Ranger. The largest crowd in years is witnessing the races.

Saratoga is the mecca for the horse racing fraternity for the month. The horses started to run for the money prizes in July and some of the outstanding horsemen in the country are on hand for this annual month of classic races. The outstanding horses will run here during the month of August and head south next month for the Kentucky races in the blue grass country.

The American League "murderers' row" of the New York Yankees continues to pound all opposition into submission to keep the topmost place in the league ranks. Gehrig and the slugging Di Maggio are leading the parade. The crowd in Yankee stadium gave mighty cheers when Tony comes around the bases and tips his hat at home plate. This is his second season in big time and he is even with Ruth's 1927 high record for home runs at this date.

New York's second team in the subway circuit is not fareing so well. The Giants are following Chicago by a substantial margin and seem to lack the punch to catch up. Chicago's pennant hopes are high.

The Collegiate All-Stars will oppose the professional New York Giants in football September 8. Andy Kerr, coach of the All-Stars, states the teams will meet at the Polo Grounds in New York with one of the strongest lineups since the opening of this annual classic three years ago.

The British Board of Boxing Control will recognize the Tommy Farr-Joe Louis bout as elimination and not a championship affair. After a long huddle the board decided the August 26 match would be preparatory to deciding the championship. They feel that Braddock forfeited his title when he refused to meet Schmeling and was not the titleholder when he fought Louis, who is regarded the American champion by the English board. Should Farr win he will be world champion here, but only American champion in his own country.

Tennis enthusiasts are rejocing over the return of the Davis cup to America after an absence of ten years. These ten years marked a long period of bickering and petty fights within the American Lawn Tennis Association, the scars of which left a great impression on the international meet.

This week-end offers dog fanciers two exhibits in Pennsylvania, the first at the Lackawanna Kennel Club show at Skytop and the second the Wyoming Valley Club near Wilkes-Barre. Good judges, liberal prizes plus sociability should make for an interesting pair of dog shows.

Jobs for the Undertaker

Four out of every five automobile accidents occur on dry roads in clear weather. Four out of every five automobile accidents involve cars driving straight ahead.

Here is the statistical proof of the disregard for every rule of courtesy and safety that characterizes the reckless or incompetent motorist. He constantly overestimates the "safety factors" of good roads and modern cars. A straight highway and a clear day act as bait to him to "open her up"—with the result that the undertaker gets about 37,000 new accounts each year.

A national Safety Council survey lists the seven most important causes of fatal accidents, in order, as follows: Exceeding speed limit or driving too fast for road and weather conditions; driving on the wrong side of the road; disregarding stop signs and signals; usurping right of way; cutting in; passing on hills and curves; failure to signal for stopping and turning.

These driving errors cause the great bulk of all serious accidents, and the first is by far the worst. Every one of them is a human error—and every accident they produce could be prevented if individual drivers would observe the most elementary rules of caution and proper driving.

In conclusion, here is one more fact you might think over next time you feel the urge to step on it: At 20 miles per hour, one accident in 61 is fatal, while at 50 or more per hour, one accident in every 11 produces a corpse.

Savona Drops Softball Game To Addison

Addison's softball squad remained in the winning column Monday night by defeating a much publicized Savona team. The score was 10 to 2 and despite protests on some umpiring decisions by the visitors the stick work of the locals easily emphasized the superiority of the Addison team. Addison scored 10 runs on 14 hits while the visitors secured their two runs on nine hits. Many of the local hits were for extra-base lengths, including homers by Armstrong and Grange. Batteries for the winners were Grange, Little and G. Heidrick and for the visitors, Van Keuren and Mulliken. Addison will play Painted Post here this Thursday night.

Dann, Scudder Have High Cows For July Period

Southern Steuben D. H. I. A. has 31 dairies on test with 823 cows on test with 93 cows dry during the month of July. Robert Dann of Painted Post has high cow for butterfat production. One of his Holsteins produced 67.5 pounds of butterfat from 1823 pounds of milk. A. E. Scudder of Painted Post leads the association with high cow for milk. This Holstein produced 1959 pounds of milk containing 58.8 pounds of butterfat for the month.

There were only two cows that produced over 60 pounds of butterfat, one in the herd of C. A. Stewart & Sons and one in Robert Dann's herd.

The following members have honor roll cows: C. A. Stewart & Son 6, J. H. Reynolds 1, A. H. Olmsted 9, Ray Jordan 6, H. D. Grist 2, Bert Jimerson 1, Floyd Marsh 2, C. L. Knox 4, M. R. Collins 3, G. M. Stuart 1, H. B. Toby 2, E. H. Ackerman 1, R. R. Decker 2, A. E. Scudder 15, Robert Dann 30, Wilson Bennett 8, Leon Andrews 4, Ralph Hand 3, Frank C. Young 4, Lewis Titus 1.

Robert Drake, tester, gives the five high herds based on butterfat production:

	Cows	Fat	Milk
Ray Jordan	18	35.3	1028.5
C. L. Knox	23	29.9	865.8
H. D. Grist	19	29.8	923.7
A. H. Olmsted	24	29.8	846.3
M. R. Collins	18	29.8	799.2

Attention is called to the Steuben County dairy tour August 13.

Warning to food buyers: If a "seed stem" has started to develop in the center of a stalk of celery, as sometimes happens in the latter part of summer, the vegetable is apt to be fibrous and bitter.

Realizing that I might be called a scold, I am going to reveal some of the pet aversions, troubles, complaints and the like I hear about the street. One or two complaints will not justify appearance here but things I have heard many times in the past few months. I'll have one of these each week for awhile. Answers from the responsible people will be welcomed.

—o—

This week I'll start on the library. One complaint against the library I have heard: is that new library books are not freely circulated until a select list of readers has been given the opportunity to have them.

—o—

The village board members held a hot session Monday night, much of which could not be reprinted. The objective of the venom was the WPA and the apparent careless misuse of tools and working materials. Accusations that some business men gained by getting materials gratis flew thick and fast. Also relative to some of the workers taking tools, selling cement from the village truck and the village truck being used for private work. What a session!

—o—

It seems also that someone erred relative to the John B. Davis reconstruction work in the rear of his building, for there was no permit for this particular construction. Which makes me ask, "What is the building code, who enforces it and what does a building permit look like?"

—o—

Anyone feeling aggrieved at anything in this column should be advised that there is nothing personal in anything that is said here. I merely pass on what I hear or tell of things which I believe will benefit others and sometimes tell little stories which I think might interest others.

—o—

Watch the Want Ad Column this week for your name for free theatre tickets if you have used that column to advertise since January 1.

—o—

By the way, if you have any small items you would like to sell, trade or even give away, 25c spent in that column will bring results, based on past experiences.

—o—

A New York visitor called my attention to a sign at the east end of the village about 'keeping on a quiet street' and the fact that is located across from a cemetery. Not a very good advertisement for the village that all people who sleep here are in the cemetery.

—o—

Dan Colbert is quite anxious to know when the Advertising Club is going to hold its summer outing and picnic. It would be a good idea to make it a village wide picnic and let us all go.

—o—

Hubert Orr reprimanded me recently for not reporting activities of the Board of Education as I have the Village Board meetings. Begin to read it in this issue, Mr. Orr.

—o—

Speaking of the Board of Education I noted they bought an electric sewing machine. It is a good buy at $55 when a foot-power machine cost $49, but the question in my mind, and has been for some time with many phases of modern education, "how many will be able to have the same facilities outside of school?"

—o—

The Boss recently wrote an editorial against permitting intoxicated drivers to get away with a $10 fine. And lo and behold we had a case here recently where even the man's own wife refused to ride with him. And he only paid $10. He was fortunate that Chief Bovee picked him up before he killed someone.

—o—

The news columns this week contain a story about William Kirk. He built cess pools and wells about Addison and took as much pride in his work as any artisan could. He told friends here that his was a profession. Pride of and in workmanship is a noble asset.

—o—

The storm of last Friday sure stopped a lot of housecleaning for I've heard various women about tell me how their cleaners stopped, the baking had to be held up owing to the Mix-Master not working. And in most cases modern facilities would not permit of substitutions for the out-of-order equipment.

—o—

It begins to look as tho Attorney Crane extricated himself from a very clean hole when he withdrew from the race for representative to the Constitutional Convention. Benjamin DeWitt and Clyde Shults of Hornell are battling along pretty tight lines for the nomination and county leaders are on the spot to get the candidate.

—o—

One month until school opens. Better get the things completed you were planning you people before September comes and you say you did not have time to get everything finished you wanted to this summer.

—o—

Next week the Rambler will be on vacation. This column will be taken over by an Old Settler with some newswriting background who wishes to remain anonymous. I'll be back with you August 19.

—o—

That's all.

—The Rambler.

Public Food No. 1

Cleanliness Guards Purity

Dairy farmers, since the days of Gail Borden's first factory, have progressed steadily in their methods of producing pure milk and keeping it sanitary.

All that science, modern equipment and trained men offer are used in Borden factories to back up the efforts of dairymen to guard milk's purity.

In helping to establish present high sanitary standards for milk, dairy farmers and distributors together have promoted public health, reduced infant mortality and placed milk and its products first in the food lists of the nation.

Comic Strip Hero in "Secret Agent X-9" At Avon Theatre

"Secret Agent X-9," hero of the newspaper feature strip by Charles Flanders, comes to life in Universal's thrilling chapterplay of the same name, which begins its first episode at the Avon Theatre Friday.

Scott Kolk, stage and screen notable, portrays the secret agent and Jean Rogers has the leading feminine role. Monte Blue, long a favorite of the silent screen, has a difficult part, to which he brings his well rounded experience as an actor. Henry Hunter, David Oliver, Henry Brandon and Lon Chaney, Jr., have other prominent roles.

"Secret Agent X-9" concerns the theft of the Belgravian crown jewels by an international gang of thieves, headed by Henry Brandon. The gems, while in this country, are in charge of Monte Blue, playing a baron of the Belgravian embassy. The gang leader disguises himself as the baron in order to steal the jewels.

Scott Kolk discovers the arrival of the thieves, trails their chief and learns where the gems are hidden. He goes through a series of rib pounding adventures; gives battle to the gang while pursuing them in high powered cars and speedboats; tackles them finally in their own hide-out, recovering the jewels and capturing the gang. The action of the story is filled with stirring incidents which follow in rapid succession, building up to strong suspense and a rousing climax.

W.C.T.U. Head In Addison - Tells of Dry Plans

The New York State Chapter of Women's Christian Temperance Union will raise $120,000 towards a national quota of $1,000,000 for national education work relative to temperance, Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, New York State president, told a representative of this paper while she was visiting in Addison last Thursday afternoon.

Each state will be permitted to expend three-fourths of its quota for work within that state and the fourth quarter will go to National Headquarters for the national educational work.

Some of the projects contemplated in the interest of temperance work were outlined by Mrs. Colvin. Radio programs dramatizing the evils of drunken drivers will be presented frequently from local stations and over national chains.

In New York State 200 additional roadside signs will be erected this year. These signs, of iron posts and enamel will be posted on all main highways. Twenty-two of them were tried and found successful last year.

A young scientist of 23 is going about the state speaking to young people on the evils of drink. He is out for one year and speaks to young people's groups. He has a case of equipment to demonstrate alcohol evils. In addition to this there is a group of young people on the road for three weeks, giving talks before groups in various communities in Western New York and also forming Youth Temperance Councils.

"The Beneficent Reprobate" is the title of a 40-minute sound picture prepared by the WCTU and released through the YMCA film exchange is available to any desiring it for the cost of mailing. Mrs. Colvin said, "The picture cost about $13,000 and illustrates uses of alcohol in industry and its effect on the human system.

YOUNG PEOPLE FROLIC

A group of Addison young people enjoyed a weiner roast at Rorick's Glen, Elmira Saturday evening, after which dancing was enjoyed. Those who attended were: the Misses Geraldine and Betty Pepper, Bernice Ricker of Addison, and Esther Davis of Painted Post; Andrew Travis, Charles Weatherby, Thomas Moshier of Addison and William Jenks of Painted Post.

"Pennies From Heaven" Coming to Avon

There's happiness ahead at the Avon Theatre, where Bing Crosby's latest picture, Columbia's "Pennies from Heaven," is due on Sunday. A cast that includes Madge Evans, Edith Fellows, Donald Meek and Louis Armstrong, famed king of swing, works along with Bing in the film.

Crosby's latest picture was "Rhythm on the Range," in which he scored a hit. Madge Evans was last seen in "Piccadilly Jim," and little Edith Fellows, thirteen-year old starlet, will be remembered for her performances in "She Married Her Boss" and "And So They Were Married" and other films. Armstrong's celebrated swing band appears with him in "Pennies from Heaven."

The story concerns a vagabond troubadour who falls in with a little girl and her improvident grandfather and proceeds to take them under his somewhat patched up wing. The child is about to be sent to an orphanage and the elderly man to an Old People's Home when the troubadour hits upon a plan to make enough money for all three of them to live on.

The county welfare worker who is responsible for the child, happens to be just the type of girl the troubadour can love, and he finds himself doing it thoroughly. However, they are on opposite sides of the fence, hence complications. Things manage to work out for the best along toward the end of the picture, after merriment, romance and music take turns with the entertainment.

Crosby is said to sing some of the best song of his career in "Pennies from Heaven." The numbers —"Let's Call a Heart a Heart," "Pennies from Heaven," "So Do I," "One Two Button Your Shoe" and "Skeleton in the Closet"—were fashioned by Arthur Johnston and John Burke. Johnston wrote the music for two of Crosby's biggest successes, "College Harmony" and "Too Much Harmony." He has such songs as "Please Listen to My Pleas," "Just One More Chance," "Thanks a Million," "Sittin' High on a Hilltop," "Cocktails for Two," "Moonstruck" and many others to his credit.

Hayes Hit in Outdoor Pictures

Reawakened public interest in outdoor action pictures has brought about many changes in the ranks of Hollywood character actors.

Among those to benefit by the increasing demand for this type of film is George Hayes, who makes his latest screen appearance in the Republic production, "Hitch Hike Lady," starring Alison Skipworth, coming to the Avon Theatre for one day, starting Saturday.

Hayes is one of the last of the vaudeville song and dance men to surrender to films, and when he finally did answer Hollywood's call, it took him five years to gain the recognition that his talents deserve. In recent months he has been offered more film parts than he can handle, and now seems well on the road to success.

Hayes is a native of Wellsville, New York. He went on the stage at seventeen, appearing in the role of a man of seventy. He soon graduated from stock to featured roles in vaudeville, and pursued a career until 1929, when he went to Hollywood for an important part in "Rainbow Man."

In "Hitch Hike Lady" he enacts the role of an old Nevada miner. Miss Skipworth plays the starring role. The featured players are Mae Clarke, Jimmy Ellison, Arthur Treacher Warren Hymer, J. Farrell Macdonald, Mervl Mercer, Ward Bond, Christian Rub, Irving Bacon and George Hayes.

She attended the Chapel of the Redeemer. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon with the Rev. John V. Axtell of the Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment was made in Addison Rural Cemetery.

In addition to her husband Mrs. Gage leaves the daughter above mentioned and 7 brothers and sisters. They are: Mrs. Irene White, Mrs. Margaret White, John, Michael and James Kimble all of Corning; Richard Kimble, Painted Post and Roy Kimble of Big Flats.

William Kirk

William Kirk died early Saturday morning, July 31, 1937 of penumonia. He was stricken Wednesday. A sister, Mrs. Margaret Kirk Cowley, died during the past week in Corning and was buried here Friday afternoon with the Rev. J. V. Axtell of the Presbyterian Church officiating.

Mr. Kirk was born in Addison, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kirk. He leaves two brothers, Clarence M. and John E. Kirk, both of Addison, R. D. 2.

Mr. Kirk was well known as a master mason in the village here and prided himself on the construction work he erected. He believed that his work was just as much a profession as that of any doctor, lawyer or other professional man. And the popularity of his work and demand for his services attested to this fact.

Mr. Kirk was a member of Williams-Greengrass Post of the American Legion. Members of that organization attended the funeral services and provided a military funeral for the deceased.
